Senator Would Tax Campaign Donations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Political campaign contributions would be taxed under an amendment to the war revenue bill introduced today by Senator Thomas, of Colorado, and referred to the Senate Finance Committee, which is revising the House draft of the measure.

The amendment provides that all contributions exceeding $500 shall be taxed 100 per cent, while lesser amounts would be subjected to lower rates.

The Finance Committee made but little progress to-day in its revision of the House draft. The provision for a super-tax of 10 per cent on platinum used in the manufacture of jewelry was stricken from the bill. Jewellers appearing before the committee argued that the value of platinum used by them was not sufficient to warrant an additional tax of 10 per cent, and that the government did not demand the metal they are using.

Taxation of salaries of state officials and of income derived from interest on state and municipal bonds, as provided in the House draft of the new $8,000,000,000 revenue bill, was attacked as unconstitutional to-day by Senator Kellogg, of Minnesota, Republican. The war powers of Congress do not extend so far as to suspend constitutional limitations, Senator Kellogg said, taking issue with Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, who, in a recent speech, upheld the right of the Federal Government to tax state instrumentalities.

Government Detains Baroness Zollner

The Baroness Ione Wilhelmina Zollner, American-born wife of a captain in the German army, is being detained by agents of the Department of Justice. Information regarding the cause of her detention is withheld by the authorities.

A dispatch from Knoxville, Tenn., quotes District Attorney W. T. Kennerly as saying the woman was tried there for alleged violation of the espionage act, had broken her parole and that her internment had been recommended.

Baroness Zollner was arrested in December, 1917, at Chattanooga, Tenn. It was alleged then that government agents had found in her possession a secret code.

New Plan to Replace "Gasless Sundays"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The autolevel Sunday programme is about to be abandoned in favor of new plan for restricting use of gasoline by automobiles. W. Champin Robinson, chief of the fuel administration's oil conservation division, said to-day an announcement on the subject probably would be ready to-morrow.

He did not indicate the nature of the new programme, but the understanding is that some limitation has been worked out to distribute gasoline saving over every day in the week without actually using a card rationing system.

100 Diplomats Coming Will See Ships Launched After Allied Nations Luncheon

More than 800 places have been reserved for a luncheon in honor of the Allied nations which the Fifth Avenue Association is to give Monday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. More than 100 of the guests will be members of the diplomatic corps at Washington, for whom a special train has been engaged.

After the luncheon another special train will carry the guests from the hotel to the Navy Yard, where they will see two vessels christened—the Albatross and the Albatross.

The principal speakers at the luncheon will be Governor Whitman, Edward N. Harley, head of the United States Shipping Board; Charles M. Schwab, of the Emergency Fleet Corporation; and Benjamin Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Seeking Soldiers' Relatives

The Communication Bureau of the Red Cross, 5 East Thirty-sixth Street, a branch of a Washington bureau which develops the day after tomorrow to the families of members of the expeditionary forces who have been killed, wounded or captured, has been asked to find the following persons whose addresses have changed since their relatives went abroad:

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN BONDS as our share of an allotment of One Billion Eight Hundred Million Dollars to be subscribed by the citizens of New York.

Every member of our industry—merchant, manufacturer, woman and man—every branch connected with our trade, has been more prosperous, has earned more money than was ever his good fortune heretofore. You have not been called upon to undergo any sacrifices; you have not risked your lives or been subjected to the known indescribable horrors of the war, or the contemptible brutal barbarism of the Hun. YOU ARE NOT DOING YOUR DUTY UNLESS YOU SUBSCRIBE EVERY DOLLAR YOU CAN IN SUPPORT OF THE LOAN AND THEREBY BACK UP OUR WONDERFUL BRAVE SOLDIERS TO THE UTMOST, WHO ARE SACRIFICING THEIR LIVES AND THEIR ALL, FIGHTING THE BATTLES THAT ARE TO BRING YOU AND THE ENTIRE WORLD GOD'S RENEWED BLESSINGS.

DO YOUR DUTY. MOBILIZE YOUR CREDIT to the support of the Government. SUBSCRIBE EVERY DOLLAR OF PROFIT YOU HAVE MADE AND EXPECT TO MAKE FOR THE YEAR 1918. GO TO YOUR BANK NOW, INQUIRE WHETHER THEY WILL LOAN YOU, without interfering with your REGULAR COMMERCIAL LINE OF CREDIT, the money necessary to enable you to subscribe every dollar you can on the following terms:

Ten per cent to be paid when you make your subscriptions, 90% to be loaned to you for three months at 4½% per annum, with privilege of three renewals based upon your paying off 10% with each renewal, your subscription to be finally taken up and paid for within one year, thus investing your 1918 profits. Renewals to be based upon the established special Federal Reserve Bank rate, plus one-half of one per cent per annum. Such which will likely not cost you more than interest at the rate of 4½% per annum.

IF YOUR BANK WILL NOT AGREE TO FINANCE YOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR LIBERTY LOAN BONDS AS OUTLINED ABOVE, APPLY AT ONCE TO THE CHAIRMAN, OR VICE-CHAIRMAN, who will provide you with banking connections that WILL DO SO, and if desired, extending to you such additional commercial lines of credit as may be consistent with good banking independent of your Liberty Loan.

O. G. BECKER, Chairman, Liberty Loan Committee of the Fur Trade, 129 West 29th Street.

SAMUEL ULLMANN, Vice-Chairman, 20 West 20th Street.

New York, October 10, 1918.

The Market Money Is Going for Liberty Bonds

Meat and Potatoes, Apples and Onions Are Cheaper

Some Points on Food Shopping: Quality, Whim and Price

Edited by ANNE LEWIS PIERCE, Director of the Tribune Institute

WHAT DEMORALIZED THE MEAT MARKET?

THE meat reporter improvidently used up his worst word last week in describing the meat market—he went on record as saying it was demoralized—so this week words fail him. The responsibility for this situation is divided between the Liberty Loan drive, the Spanish influenza, the price and quality of the meat and the weather. One master butcher in Brooklyn who is selling the best of lightweight steers (not old cows or grass-fed cattle) at very fair prices said he was selling little meat and was glad of it. The people were buying bonds! His prices were 36 to 38 for sirloin (heavy beef, Washington market 45 to 48; note a 10-cent difference per pound on a quality basis); round steak at the Brooklyn store is 40 cents (heavy grade, 50 cents); stewing meats, 20 to 25 cents, from the neck and flank (heavy grade, 32); pot roast from the bottom round, 25 cents; cross ribs, 30, and top sirloin, 35.

The saddest story is the lamb story, continued from last week. The best quality of lamb for some reason is going begging still. It is wholesaling at from 17 to 19 cents a pound. Manhattan prices are 38 to 48 cents for shoulder, rib and loin chops; stewing lamb is 24 cents—a very low price.

The Federal Food Board holds that at present prices the consumer should be able to buy loin chops for 35 cents and rib for 32 at the most. The Brooklyn butcher was selling forequarters for 25 cents and hindquarters and leg for 30. These are ideal prices and properly reflect the present condition of the wholesale market.

Now is the time to buy meat. All of it is cheap, relatively speaking, except pork and heavy beef, which continue to go to our fighting men. Even pork tenderloins are cheaper; they are kept here. The freezers are full of Uncle Sam's purchases, and the meat must be sold. It is a good plan to buy lamb and veal plentifully, lightweight beef moderately and "spare" the pork.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT

The demoralization of the meat market repeats itself among the vegetables. Are people really eating less?

Potato supplies have been heavy, with very little demand. Sweet sell for 6 pounds for 25 cents and whites for 4 cents a pound. New Jersey sweet potatoes in baskets are a little higher.

The potato crop is short some 51,000,000 bushels, and soon the farmer will be holding back for higher prices, just as he did last year, and it remains to be seen whether the weather will catch him again or he will catch us! If you have a place for a barrel of potatoes it is a good time to buy them. Be sure that they are the firm-skinned potatoes suitable for winter storage.

Apples and onions are also cheap. The apple and potato prices quoted here are lower than those given at many loading stations throughout the country. A market of this sort means a decreased supply before long. Grade A York Imperials are wholesaling at $4.75 a barrel and Baldwins at $5. Grapes keep up in price, notwithstanding good supplies. Sixteen-pound baskets of Concord sold in the market for $1.40; by the pound they bring 28 cents for a basket weighing one and one-half pounds.

THE FISH MARKET

It is between seasons in the fish market. The whiting have come again and are selling wholesale for 3 to 5 cents and should retail for 8 to 10, but the market as yet is 15 cents. These fish are plentiful and better quality than out-of-season bluefish. The freezers are full, and the canny thing to do is to buy what the fish man has the most of. It will be cheaper and better. Whiting costs more on Fridays than on other days. If the housekeeper would go to the wholesale market on Mondays and Tuesdays and buy her fish—a purchase of ten pounds gives you the entrée—two or three neighbors could save several thrift stamps and have better food into the bargain.

As a commentary on the effect of waste on price, note that steak cod wholesales as high as 18 cents and retails for 32, while market cod, with the necessary waste, wholesales for 7 to 9 cents and retails for 18. It is a question whether the more expensive fish is not the cheaper at that.

Speaking of quality, fall salmon, rather pale in color and less distinctive in flavor, wholesales for 18 cents, while the silver salmon, of better flavor and color, wholesales for 23 cents and retails for 40.

Flounders and haddock are 15 to 18 cents a pound, mackerel 30 and halibut 40.

Oysters are plentiful and of fine quality, selling at 15 cents a dozen. Clams, on the other hand, are scarce and rather high—15 cents for Little Necks and 36 for the large chowder clams.

MILK, BUTTER AND EGGS

Speaking of the increase in milk prices, a cent and a half a quart or 15½ cents for grade B, note that those who buy single quarts are entitled to a credit slip when they pay 16 cents and the next purchase can be made for 15 on presenting said slip. This may sound like a small matter, but the poor woman with many children who does not run a bill and who deals on the "cash and carry" plan ought not to pay more for her milk than those who pay by the month and have delivery service. This bit of thoughtfulness on the part of the food administration insures a square deal to those who need it most—a saving of over $3 a year to a woman who goes to the store for her daily milk supply of two quarts.

Butter went down this week after its threatened rise. The flurry occasioned by Uncle Sam's big marketing has subsided. So much for the nerves and psychology of the market. The best of creamery tub butter is 65 cents, and it always costs you a cent or two more for the printing. Butter has varied the past week from 58 to 63 cents wholesale. Give your retailer a chance. There is no telling at which of these prices he bought, and so retail prices may vary accordingly.

Best quality candied Western eggs are selling for 65 cents, price approved by the Federal Food Board. You can pay 87 cents for "nearly candied white leghorns." Any one who is willing to pay a tax of 22 cents a dozen to have his egg in a white shell is certainly not very keen on the thrift propaganda. Cold storage candied eggs sell for 55 cents a dozen, and are good May eggs probably, of most excellent quality, and certainly good enough for all cooking purposes. Why not buy two grades of eggs? Ten cents a dozen on all cooking eggs is worth saving.

(Wholesale market prices and conditions are based primarily on reports of the New York office of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. The discussion of the retail market, its price and special war conditions are prepared in collaboration with the New York Federal Food Board.)

(The market column appears on Fridays)
